Highly Qualified Professional Development Mission

Statement: CKEC/CKSEC will provide high quality professional development for member districts that is intentionally a coalescence of (1) the expectations of high quality professional development defined under the NCLB law; (2) NSDC's National Standards for Professional Development; and (3) the majority and predominant needs of member districts.

CKEC/CKSEC professional development offerings will focus first on the on-going development of content area knowledge and expertise which includes instructional strategies and pedagogy and secondly on building leadership among teachers and administrators throughout our member districts. To that end, we believe (1) the context should be authentic and timely; (2) the content should be targeted to meet the needs of the participants; (3) the evaluation should be tied to student achievement; and (4) the delivery should be varied and tied to research – based best methods and adult learning processes.

Adrianne Roggenbuck - As a dynamic, memorable and inspirational trainer, Adrianne has presented at local, state, national and international conferences. She presents at such conferences as National Staff Development Council, Raising Student Achievement, IL Principal's Association, and IL Association for Supervision and Curriculum. After 19 years in the classroom, her passion for learner-centered excellence took her to the Professional Development Alliance in Joliet, IL. Here she was responsible for all aspects of designing and delivering learner-centered, engaging training programs in a variety of subject areas including standards alignment, reading, and writing. As the lead Staff Development Specialist, she enjoyed writing and administering state and federal grants, facilitating networking groups, and consulting with school administrations.

Adrianne is a Master certified trainer for Research-Based Creative Teaching Strategies and Standards-Aligned Classroom. She also thrives as an adjunct instructor for Aurora University and Waubonsee Community College teaching graduate-level classes such as Standards-Aligned Instruction and Assessment and Reading First Academy. A partial list of Adrianne's clients includes: Spring Branch I.S.D., Chicago City Colleges, University of Minnesota, LA Unified School District, NY State United Teachers Union, and Ohio Rehab Services Commission. Adrianne earned a Bachelor of Science in Education and a Masters of Adult Education and has earned a graduate designation of the National Staff Development Council Academy X. She is currently a member of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, the National Staff Development Council, the Illinois Staff Development Council, the International Reading Association, and the Illinois Reading Council. Prior to beginning her career in professional development, she was a classroom teacher.

Karen Karp is a Professor of Mathematics Education at the University of Louisville. She is also on the Board of Directors for the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and a former President of the Association of Mathematics Teacher Educators.

Amy Lingo is an Associate Professor in Special Education at the University of Louisville. She is a former middle school special education teacher. Her research interests are academic and behavioral interventions for students with disabilities.

The workshop will be for teachers who work with students with disabilities. The presenters will address the five major content strands of the NCTM standards, numbers and operations, geometry, measurement, data and probability, and algebraic thinking. Strategies for teaching mathematics to students with disabilities will be demonstrated.

Douglas Little brings a professional lifetime of experience in special education to Key2Ed, Inc. After beginning his career as a teacher and principal in Tennessee, he has since served at the local, state, federal and higher education levels of public education. His experience in federal, state and local educational administration is as extensive as his experience in the interpretation and application of federal and state statutes, rules and regulations.

For the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), Washington, D.C., Little served as Education Program Specialist and State contact person where he was responsible for monitoring States' implementation of the Individuals with Disabilities Act (Part B). While fulfilling the responsibilities of the position, he was honored with the 1994 Leadership Award from the US Department of Education,

Prior to joining OSEP, he worked for several years with the Tennessee Department of Education, Nashville, as an Education Specialist, Secondary Education Staff and Secondary Education Coordinator.

Also within the State of Tennessee, Little served as Director of Special Education for the Bradley County Board of Education, (Bradley, TN) and Cleveland City Schools, (Cleveland, TN). While Director of the Cleveland City Schools program, the governor recognized the system as an A+ system, a highly coveted recognition. In 1984 the Honorable Lamar Alexander, Governor of the State of Tennessee, named Little Aid De Camp, Governor's Staff.

In addition, he has also served as Director of Special Education for Montgomery Public Schools, (Montgomery, AL), and Assistant Superintendent for the San Francisco Unified School District.

Dr. Joyce Little began her special education career as a speech/language pathologist teaching students with language disabilities. For over seven years, she also worked as a diagnostic expert, identifying students' disabilities and defining the programs necessary to serve their individual needs.

The scope of Dr. Little's twenty-five years experience in education is extensive and includes administering local special education programs in Northern and Southern California school districts. For over ten years, she applied her analytical talents and facilitation skills to promote organizational change within these districts. The results of her work positively affected special education programs through dramatically improved communication and coordinated decision-making at the program director and coordinating agency levels.

Her commitment led to improved delivery of service to students through the initiation of Special Education Leadership Teams. The Teams were comprised of teachers, principals, and aides who continuously reviewed and revised processes and procedures within districts for special education programs.

In her work with special programs and projects, Dr. Little introduced multi-sensory reading programs that successfully improved LEP and special education student's language proficiency for both English and their primary language. To foster positive patent involvement and participation, she established and improved thriving Community Advisory Committees (CACs) to focus on the development and implementation of dynamic parent information and training opportunities.

In addition to teaching at all levels, from preschool programs to high school, she has worked for districts as a fun-raiser and grant writer, and developed award winning school business partnerships.

A native Californian, Dr. Little holds the following degrees from the University of Southern California: Ed.D in Education Policy and Administration; M.A. in Communicative Disorders; and B.A. in Political Science.

Gaining Control of your Classroom

(EILA Credit requested)

Audience: All School Staff.

Description: Classroom Management is the key component in any educational setting. If students are in a safe environment, then learning can take place. Setting the tone in a class, preventing behavior problems with interesting and engaging curriculums and effectively including all students in the classroom so that their needs are met. Having the right environment for all students to learn is my major goal of implementing good classroom management--without it the students would not be able to learn.

S'cool Moves Workshop
(EILA Credit requested)

Audience: All Educators and Therapists.

Description: S'cool Moves is a research based program developed by a reading specialists and occupational therapist. S'cool Moves brings together best practices in educational theory, brain integration, developmental movement, and self-regulatory techniques. The activities strengthen visual, auditory, sensory, and postural systems of the body. These systems need to be fully functioning for focus control and academic success. By adding S'cool Moves techniques to what you already use in your daily routines, children learn to monitor their own behavior. Teachers have more time to teach, and children have more time to learn. Rather than TELLING children to focus, teach them HOW to focus. Talk less, show more. Each participant will receive a 60 page booklet and S'cool Moves posters (set of 10).

Ronald C. White, Jr.

Since its founding in 1994, the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History has become the nation's preeminent U.S. history organization, opening the Academy of American Studies in Queens, New York, the country's first American-history-focused high school; offering a series of highly acclaimed summer seminars for educators; pioneering extracurricular history enrichment programs. Gilder Lehrman has been recognized for its contributions to American history education at every level from kindergarten through college.

The three day summer session would be spent looking at the Civil War through the eyes of President Lincoln. Professor Ronald C. White will discuss the close ties between Kentucky and Lincoln – and between the Confederacy and Union membership. A GLI pedagogy coach would then work with teachers in groups on document projects, the Abraham Lincoln history in a box and on strategies for taking the content back to the classroom in dynamic ways.

Ronald C. White, Jr. one of the guest speakers is the author of A. Lincoln: A Biography (2009), a New York Times, Washington Post, and Los Angeles Times bestseller. His Lincoln biography won the coveted Christopher Award in 2010 which salutes books "that affirm the highest values of the human spirit." White is also the author of Lincoln's Greatest Speech: The Second Inaugural (2002) and The Eloquent President: A Portrait of Lincoln Through His Words.

He is presently writing a comprehensive biography of Ulysses S. Grant. He has lectured at the White House and been interviewed on the PBS News Hour. Dr. White is a graduate of UCLA, Princeton Theological Seminary, with a Ph.D. in Religion and History from Princeton University. He has taught at UCLA, Princeton Theological Seminary, Whitworth University, Colorado College, and San Francisco Theological Seminary. He is a Fellow at the Huntington Library. He lives with his wife, Cynthia, in La Cañada, California.

THE GILDER LEHRMAN
INSTITUTE of AMERICAN HISTORY

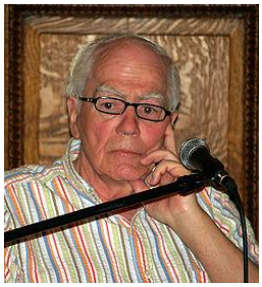
Gilder Lehrman's three-day session for the PAST/TAH grant will focus on the United States' role in World War II from the prewar isolationist sentiment to the US's emergence from the war as the world's super power. The featured historian is Dr. Jennifer Keene, who currently serves as the chairperson of the Department of History at Chapman University in Orange, California. Dr. Keene has published three books on the American involvement in the First World War, Doughboys, the Great War and the Remaking of America (2001), The United States and the First World War (2000), and World War I (2006) and is the lead author for an America history textbook, Visions of America: A History of the United States. She has received numerous fellowships for her research, including a Mellon Fellowship, a Graves Award, Fulbright Senior Scholar Award to Australia and France, an Albert J. Beveridge Research Grant, and a National Research Council Postdoctoral Research Award.

As part of the CHEETAH and PAST summer colloquiums there will also be guest appearances by highly acclaimed individuals from the historical and political arenas.



June 28--Pulitzer Prize winning author and nationally acclaimed journalist Jimmy Breslin will speak to both audiences .Among his works are the novel The Gang (1969), the memoir I Want to Thank My Brain for Remembering , and the nonfictional the Good Rat (2008)about the Mafia.

June 28 and 29--Author Ken Davis will appear. He is the author of Don't Know Much About History, which spent 35 consecutive weeks on The New York Times bestseller list. He has appeared on hundreds of television and radio shows, including NPR. The Today Show, Fox and Friends, CNN, and The Discovery Channel. He has been a commentator for All Things Considered, and has written for the New York Times.

June 29-General Jerry Boykin will speak to the combined audience. LTG (Ret) Jerry Boykin was one of the original members of the US Army's Delta Force. He was privileged to ultimately command these elite warriors in combat operations. Later, Jerry Boykin commanded all the Army's Green Berets. He has participated in clandestine operations around the world. Today he is an ordained minister and the author of Never Surrender: A Soldier's Journey to The Crossroads of Faith and Freedom.
